Restoration of diplomatic rela-tions between New Delhi and Islamabad, broken by Pakistan in the December war, is expected to be one positive outcome of the meeting between Mrs. Gandhi and Mr. Bhutto this week.

A declaration formally ending hostilities reopening of closed borders, resumption of trade and restoration of broken communications links are also expected to follow the re-establishment of diplomatic relations.

It is also believed that with-drawal of Indian and Pakistoni troops from territory occupied by both sides in December will be worked out in an amicable exchange. A firming of the unstabla cease-fire in Kashmir, m force since 1949 but often marred by shooting incidents, mey be another easy step.

The current Indian proposal for a permanent solution in Kashmir is to make the present cease-fire line an international border, nite a few adjustments. But for Mr. Bhutto to accept this formula would be an abrupt and politically dangerous reversal of a policy that has been dinned into generations of Pakistanis with unremitting passion.

However, Indians are hopeful that Mr. Bhutto will come to at (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

France Said to Have Begun Nuclear Testing in Pacific

PARIS, June 28 (Reuters).— The Defense Ministry today refused to confirm or dany a report from Tahiti that it had ex-ploded the first nuclear device of its latest test program.

The report said the blast took place last Sunday over Mururoa Atoll, in French Polynesia. The report originated from the French news agency Agence France

Tre French government-which says it will go ahead with the tests—has adopted a policy of silence and secrecy over the program in the face of angry protests from Australia, New Zealand, Latin American nations, Japan and others. Some have threatened to break off relations with France.

Informed sources here have said the test program involves miniaturization of thermonuclear warheads for missiles to be carried by submarines. The report from Tahiti also said that a French warship had intercepted the anti-nuclear protest yacht Greenpeace III, sponsored by the Greenpeaca Foundation, of Vancouver, Canada, and towed it from the test zone to Tahiti.

What scant information that has come from official French circles suggests that the new test series will comprise three or four explosions, all of low yield. Officials at the Paris embassies of Australia and New Zealand said they had no information that a first test had been set off. Some experts here have pointed out that since the South Pacific tests are atmosphere explosions, they would be harder to monitor than ground-level or underground blasts, especially if they were of very low intensity.

PARIS, June 28 (IHT).-Continental foreign exchange markets opened today for the first time since Britain stopped supporting the rate for the pound sterling on Friday, with the dollar farling far better than expected.

While sales of dollars kept it near its lower limit in most of Europe, the dollar went below the intervention rate in only one country. Switzerland, and there the central bank refused to intervene to etop the drop.

In effect, the Swiss franc is floating. But whereas sterling is becoming less expensive against the dollar and other currencies (it closed down 1.5 cents in London at $2.485, representing a 4.6 percent decline from its previous rate), the Swiss franc is moving in the opposite direction. At the closing price of 3.739 francs to the dollar, the franc was 0.64 percent above its declared maximum rate.

As Switzerland is not a member of the International Monetary Fund, it retains the freedom to decide whether to support its declared parity, Swiss and other bankers criticized Switzerland's refusal to intervene, saying this adds new uncertainty to the exchange rate structure established in Washington last December. Swiss bankers, however, said they were very pleased by the small size of the franc's appre-

clation and theorized that the national bank was only temporarily out of the market, waiting to see what kind of rate was established in order to judge how much support would be necessary before jumping in.

In West Germany, bankers had feared that any especially heavy pressure in favor of the deutsche

Ratification Needed

The Moscow agreement on the limitation of defensive and offensive nuclear weapons formally comes into force upon ratification by the U.S. Senate and the Supreme Soviet.

Both sides have agreed, however, to abide by the treaty from the date it was signed by President Nixon and the Soviet Communist party leader, Leonid L Brezhnev.

Under the treaty, the Soviet Union is free to place up to 100 defensive launchers around Moscow-64 of them are now in place and it has the option of setting up an antiballistic defense at least 800 miles away from the capital to protect its offensive missiles.

The United States may erect an antiballistic system around Washington and around its own offensive lanncher positions.

Of Accord to Senate Panel WASHINGTON, June 28 (UPI). —Arms negotiator Gerard C. Smith refused today to give the Senate Armed Services Committee a public, point-by-point accounting of U.S. gains and con-cessions in hargaining that resulted in the Soviet-American arms control agreements signed in Moscow last month. Over objections by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D., Wash., that his reasons were "ridiculous and nonsense," Mr. Smith said any such disclosures might jeopardize the next round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT) starting next fall.

Sen. Jackson contends that the administration made 13 major compromises of the original SALT agreement it proposed Aug. 4, 1970, which he said included a provision to limit each side to an aggregate force of 1,900 offensive missiles. The United States eventually settled for a U.S. force of 1.710 missiles and a Soviet force of 2,353, he said.

Mr. Smith said Sen. Jackson's 1970 figures were incorrect. He also argued that the 1970 position could not he compared with the 1972 agreements, which were far more comprehensive than the United States contemplated at the start of the talks. .

But the ambassador refused to challenge Sen. Jackson's figures individually, explaining that to do so would require divulging Soviet negotiating and thus, inhibit future discussions with the Rus-

SEATO Talks End, Peace Chance Seen

CANBERRA, June 28 (AP).— The Southeast Asia Treaty Organization's ministerial council agreed today that the "chances of building a lasting peace now seem hetter than they have been for a long time."

This was disclosed in a 2,000word communique issued after a two-day meeting of the sixnation council in Parliament House here. -

The communiqué qualified chances of a lasting peace by saying this conclusion was reached "on balance."

Less Hoopla and Frills

Democrats Hope to Cut Convention Costs

By Nicholas C. Chriss

MIAMI BEACH: June 27-Democratic party leaders, up to their necks in unpaid bills from 1968, are conducting business on a pay-as-you-go basis here where preparations are under way for the July national convention.

The four-day gathering next mouth has been called a "no-nonsense" convention by party chairman Lawrence O'Brien. It is supposed to have less hoople and frills and more reform than any in the past and, hopefully, will cost a little less than the others.

And, for the first time in history, all the bills will be paid by the time it ends. Hopefully.

Richard J. Murphy, the convention manager for the party, esti-mates that the total convention

Staggering Debt The Democrats don't have much choice. They have a staggering debt of $9.3 million accumulated from the 1968 conven-

Also for the first time in history, there will be a new rule book at the convention.

The convention magazine, call-d Democrats in Convention, notes that the new reform rules "tear away the sentiment and debris of more than a century. nbolish the pointless, boring and sometimes unfair procedures that encumbered the Democratic conventions through 1968."

Party officials claim that they are sending direct mail requests to a million Americans asking for contributions to support the party, and to break away from the large private contributions of the past.
Still, money and the pay-as-yougo plan doesn't seem to be causing any problems here among the advance party of Democratic officials preparing the convention, although the bills are large.

MIAMI, June 28 (WP).—Ber- schivity, most recently by nard L. Barker, who was arrested nine days ago with four other men in the Washington offices of the Democratic National Committee liked to sound mysterious, according to people who know

He was involved in the abortive 1961 Bay of Pigs invasion, and, acquaintances say, he was given to dropping veiled hints that he was well connected in United States, intelligence circles and that interesting things were afoot.

Like many of Miami's more than 200,000 Calan exiles, he is known as a political conservative and a strong anti-Communist. He supported President Nixon's mining had urged exile groups to oppose war protesters at this summer's two national political conventions

Of the five suspects arrested in connection with the attempted bugging of the Watergate Hotel, three (including Mr. Barker) were born in Cuba. All have a background in intelligence, anti-Castro activity or both. Four of the five including Mr. Barker, are in the District of Columbia jail pending release on bond. 🦈

Except perhaps for James W. McCord fr., a veteran of 19 years with the Central Intellig Agency and, at the time of his arrest in the Democratic offices in Watergate, chief of security services for the Committee for the Re-election of the President Barker is the man who has attracted the most attention.

Despite his Anglo-Saxon name and appearance, his American service in the U.S. Army as an officer in World War II in the European theater and his residence in Miami, Mr. Barker is in many ways a Cuban. He was born in Havana 55 years ago. Reportedly he held a police post under dictator Fulgencio Batista before Fidel Castro came to power. He associates almost entirely with Cubans in Miami,

Someone said to me once that for a Yanqui, Barker spoke beautiful Spanish," recalls a Cubanjournalist here. "I had to tell them he was as much a Latin

There are various stories about Mr. Barker's claudestine activities in circulation here, but many of them seem to trace back to the man himself. The chief Vatican spokesman, Pederico Alessandrini, stated that today's church measures bad been made possible by the recent ratification of the treety whereby West Germany had guaranteed Polund's Oder-Neisse border.

The spokesman declared that the Vatican had reorganized the church structure in Poland's west "to meet pastoral needs." This seemed to imply something less than the formal acknowledgement of the Oder-Neisse line as Poland's western border that the Warsaw government had demanded.

The Art of Floating

Britain's decision to float the pound violates tradition in that it is an entirely rational move, taken at the right moment, at minimum cost to the world. If the British government had chosen to follow tradition, it would have waited until its reserves were depleted by a futile effort to prop the pound up at an artificial level. It would have pumped the arithmetical value of its currency up into a test of its own national honor and other nations' good faith. It would have gone through the whole Wagnerian ritual of a full-blown monetary crisis in the grand manner, moving in stately Thythms toward a climax hoth disastrous and inevitable. It would have demonstrated once again, in short, all the reasons that make the tradition exceedingly costly.

The British float demonstrates clearly the extreme fragility of the Smithsonian agreement last December. There the world's leading trading nations arrived at a new set of values at which to exchange their currencies. But any set of fixed values is necessarily short-lived. The world's currencies are constantly shifting in respect to each other. One chief reason is that nations vary greatly in their toleration of . inflation. The West Germans, for example, have a profound fear of inflation and will pay a stiff price to control it. The British. in contrast, currently enjoy the highest inflation rate of any major industrial nation. As a result the West German mark rose last year in relation to most of the world's other currencles, and the British pound is now falling. The Smithsonian agreement was originally supposed to be a stop-gap, to provide a little time in which the world could rebuild its monetary system to adjust itself constantly to shifting values. But once the stop-gap was accomplished, all the nations began to lose interest in the issue.

The conventional system of fixed rates is working increasingly badly because the amounts of money in play have risen very rapidly. The enormous expansion of international business and banking in recent years has set in circulation huge sums of short-term capital that travels by telephone, restlessly seeking safety, or high interest rates, or investment prospects. The float of the pound will probably set off another spate of talk, in the world's treasuries, about the need to control capital movements. But the American experience, and most other nations', has shown it to be extremely dif-

The importance of the Smithsonian agreement lay in the success of the United States in persuading its trading partners to let us cut the value of our dollar to make U.S. goods cheaper abroad. The importance of the British decision lies in its acknowledgement that, after six months, the pound was seriously overvalued in relation to the dollar. At the Smithsonian, it was the governments that set the rates of exchange. But now the British are going to let the market set the value of the pound. It will be worth, from day to day, what the world's hankers and traders will pay for it.

Ideally, no doubt, it would be best to have a formal international agreement to administer flexible exchange rates. But, as a practical matter, that great reform does not seem likely for some considerable time. The float is a respectable alternative. It has the advantage of reflecting faithfully the realities of the world economy, in strong contrast to a desperate effort to cling to an obsolescent Smithsonian agreement. In principle, there is nothing wrong with a float. In practice it promises to work well for the British and, very likely, for other countries in the months to come.

Middle East Myopia

For the sixth time in less than four years. the UN Security Council has condemned Israel for retaliatory raids against Lebanon without seriously addressing the root of the problem-deadly Palestinian guerrilla attacks against Israel from Lebanese soil. The myopic, partisan approach to incidents in the Middle East can only serve further to exacerbate tensions, to undermine the UN's efforts to promote an Arab-Israeli settlement and to erode whatever confidence still exists in Security Council resolutions.

Although the council acted in response to a Lebanese government request, its failure to condemn Palestinian extremists for their provocative violence is almost as much of a disservice to Lebanon as it is to Israel. The Lebanese, necessarily the least belligerent of Israel's Arab neighbors, clearly have no interest in picking a quarrel with militarily and politically to be able to control fills this reasonable goal. the guerrillas on its own.

Strong UN condemnation of the Palestinian extremists might at least offer some encouragement to those elements in Lebanon who are calling for a crackdown on the guerrillas. It would also take the council out of the contradictory and self-defeating position of appearing to condone violence on the part of groups which have persistently rejected UN proposals for a peaceful settlement of the Arab-Israell dispute, from the original Palestine partition plan to the resolution of Nov. 22, 1967.

It is time the world organization-and especially its Arah members-distinguished between the violent demands of those diehard provocateurs and the legitimate interests of the Palestinians who want to live at peace with Israel in a portion of their old homeland, which they could call their own. The Security Council could play a far more constructive role if it focused its the Israelis. But Lebanon is too weak efforts on promoting a settlement that ful-

French A-Tests

The protests against the nuclear tests are the expression of vague individualist demands against the assertion of a national right. Is it necessary to point out that the use of this right cannot be denied France? In Australia, fanciful parachutists are thinking of getting the tests called off by dropping in at Mururoa Atoll. This is only the infantile expression of a peevish frame ' more is anticipating the future ones. of mind.

These Australians who are demanding that France should stop its tests in the Pacific are encouraging the American homb- . ing raids in Vietnam.

And what about Peru? Here it is protesting against tests taking place 6,000 kilometers away from its territory when it has never been upset by the numerous American explosions in Nevada, when the distance involved is the same. The tests are France's right, a right exercised only in the interests of peace, without any wish to harm any nation at all. The French atomic weapon was conceived on the initiative of Gen. de Gaulle to guarantee our policy of independence and to consolidate peace. -From La Nation (Paris).

Italian Politics

For the victory of the Italian right wing, this time, the Italian left wing is to be credited. The sudden movement of the Christian Democrats into the right has surprised the Communists-more than the Socialists, who remained out of the coalition on purpose. This is why Socialist leader Mancini said that the Communists are regretting more than the others the loss of the left-center, even though they criticized it most. By Bernard D. Nossiter

LONDON,—The British diplomatic corps is getting tired of being labeled the West's odd man out over détente in Europe. It is obviously true that Prime Minister Edward Heath has not made a trip to Moscow like President Nixon, has not launched an Ostpolitik like Chancellor Brandt nor promoted the European security conference like President Pompidou. But officials here remind callers, including the cen-sorious Russians, that Britain was pushing détente under Harold Macmillan long before it became fashionable in Bonn or Wash-

For Moscow, which has been rapping British knuckles in public lately, the key test of goodwill these days is a nation's attitude toward the Russian-proposed sc-

London insists it not only expects the meeting to take place next year but can even see some positive results flowing from it. No great ones, mind you, but some useful ones, particularly in creating a happier East-West atmosphere.

All But Fixed

Diplomats here think the big meeting will be eet for May or June in a neutral capital, probably Vienna or Geneva. The participants, it is said, are now all but fixed. The gathering will include the United States, Canada and all the nations in geographic Europe, including neutrals. There has been some suggestion that since Turkey is coming, why not other Mediterranean states like Algeria or Tunisis. But that idea is not likely to get very far.

The British make plain they have few illusions about the great meeting. They talk privately about the inevitability of propaganda and empty rhetoric. They think it will be hard to resist a Russian proposal for a grand sounding declaration of principles, along the lines of the one adopted by Mesars, Nixon and Brezhnev in Moscow, calling for 'peaceful coexistence," the renunciation of "force" and the promotion of commercial and economic ties."

Diplomats here also predict agreement on a wide range of studies to foster cooperation over environmental concerns, trade. scientific and cultural exchange. Finally, the biggest gain forecast for the Soviet Union is the mantle of respectability that will be draped over East Germany. at nation will be sitting at the table, perhaps for the first time as a full participant in a political gathering with the West.

In London's view, the conference could produce some dividends for the West as well. For one thing, it might encourage moves toward independence in Eastern Europe, a road boldly traveled by Yugoslavia, more cautiously by Romania and hinted et in Poland.

In addition, if the West plays its cards well, diplomats here think at least a paper agreement could be reached pledging freer access for people and ideas across bloc lines. Eminent cold war scholars here think this is a necessary concomitant of a multipolar world, one that no longer looks exclusively either to Washington or Moscow.

'Cooperation'

The British are working on at least one interesting idea under the heading of "cooperation." They envision a deal to exchange information about troop dispositions in Europe. Thus, if either the Warsaw Pact or the NATO bloc moved a division or two around, each would be obliged to notify the other in advance about the whys and wherefores.

In Moscow, President Nixon and Secretary-General Brezhnev agreed that preparatory work on the security conference would go forward hand in hand with preliminary work on a moch tougher issue, the proposed mutual and balanced reduction in forces by the two blocs. Here, the British, like the French and the Russians, are ex-tremely doubtful that anything useful will emerge. London's top diplomats understand the American impetus behind MBPR (mntual balanced force reduction), a device invented to dampen con-gressional pressure for unilateral cuts. British diplomats are far too sophisticated to get involved in American elections, but it reveals no secrets to report they are not enchanted with George troops from Europe without any quid pro quo .

They are also pessimistic about would work. The difficulty, said

Not Dismayed

The British say they have run this through their computers and anything acceptable to the West would not be agreeable in the East and vice versa. Unlike the European security conference, the MBFR bargaining is expected to be prolonged, difficult and probably fruitless. As far as can be determined, that prospect does not dismay British diplomats.

London now says it believes Russia genuinely wants stability in Europe and Britain welcomes that. But at the same time, the word here is "keep your eyes open." British diplomats say they cannot tell whether the new Soviet stance is the first phase in a global effort at stability or McGovern's proposal to bring beck whether Moscow wants Europe quiet in order to have a freer hand in the Middle East and Far East. The Woman Who Heads Paris Council

By Hebe Dorsey

PARIS, June 28 (IHT).—"Ma-dame le Président" is grammatical nonsense—but then Nicole de Hauteeloque, as the first woman to become president of the Consell de Paris has every right to coin the title.

She is quite stern on the subject. "Madame la Presidente," she invists, means the wife of a president," This detail aside, Madame le

President is a 100 percent woman. She is 59, a well-built, small-ish blunde with eyelids elegantly powdered in blue. Her smiling, no-ax-to-grind determination makes it impossible to tag her as a typical career woman. The other day, she was wearing a smart red suit by Carven ("She's a good friend of mine") with Dior shoes and the Legion of Honor pinned on her lapei.

Her office, in the Paris town-hall, is pleasantly modern with leather chairs, spot lights in the ceiling, steel and glass doors and an Arp sculpture. A large portrait of Gen. Charles de Gaulic sits on her desk. One wonders, however, if a Monsieur le Pre-sident would have all those red rores around.

president of the Paris City Com-cil? "I started in the Résistance." she said "and was always in Gen. de Gaulle's entourage." (She has the Croix de Guerre and several Resistance decora-

"I joined his party, then called the RPF (Rassemblement du Peuple Francaist, which I helped to organize. So, it was sort of obvious that in 1947, I should be on an electoral list. I was elected to the Conseil Municipal."

Over her 25-year political career, Mrs. de Hautecloque was also elected depute of the 15th arrondissement (300,000 people and the largest in Paris, even larger than Bordeaux). "I was very interested in that area because it was a bit rough. The land was generally badly developed and the houses were old but had no character."

With no beauty to preserve, Mrs. de Hauteclocque hod an easier time knocking down old buildings and putting np lowcost apartment houses. She was re-elected in 1962, 1967 and 1968. Her seat on the Consell de Paris became almost permanent and she was re-elected until she obtained the presidency this year.
A quiet but Irm partisan ot women's lib, Mrs. de Hanteclos feels that Frenchwomen have political power. But I'm not sure they use it." This partly comes from male chanvinism. "I'm not sure" she said, "that political groups, whatever the party, have chough confidence in women," She herself was only elected on a third ballot, although her party was in the majority.

Regretfully, she noted that "Frenchwomen's political octivity has dwindled since the libera-tion. There were 32 women in the National Assembly after the war. Today, there are only eight."

"Il's not that women arc inactive," she said. "But they're passive. I with they'd realize that they represent 54 percent of the votes and, consequently, hold the country'e tuture in their hands. I tlnd it surprising and damaging that 28 percent of women do not votc."

To me, women are the conservative element in any country. They control the family budget which means, in effect, that they are instrumental in the country's budget. Women should also care about peace and determine the future of their children."

Mrs. de Hautecloque sees two solutions to the problem: "Train and inform women. I'm very grateful to women's magazines, which, tor some time now, have cut back on recipes and branched into political news." "It is good for a woman to assert herself. She can do so through her professional conscience, her seriousness, her good sense and her very valuable teminine intuition."

Despite her outstanding political record and her many decorations, Mrs. de Hautecloque admits that up to three years ago, she never thought she would make it to the presidency. "But last year, I suddenly knew I would." A cheerful divorcee with a daughter and a 13-year-old grandson, Mrs. de Hautecloque admits that her career was not compatible with family life. "I" work long hours and no man. as you know, would put up with that. I'm quite content as it is. I try to see my family as much as I can. My favorite relaxation is riding and puttering around my garden." Mrs. de Hautecloque will be president tor one year. "One annot really change the world in that time. One can only hope to get things started." about her projects, she sounded like a tirst-class French hostess. "I'm going to revive the image of Paris, City of Light, I am also going to increase the number of green areas in the city."

"I'm very concerned about old peoplo who often lead a hard, joyless life. I'd like them to be able to walk out to a park and ait with a lot ot flowers around."

Her tirst duty was receiving Queen Juliana. "Of course I was shaken," she said. "There's quite o pompous mise en scene oround here, with grand stairways, huge salons and gorden republicains. But the queen was so simple and kind that she put me at case immediately."

IN THE UNITED STATES

Money and the Foreign Student

By Gene I. Macroff

NEW YORK (NYT).-Abdul M. Rahmani of Afghanistan, a 28-year-old mechanical engineer. came to the United States as a college freshman seven years ago and expects to return home soon -with a PhD, and a worrisome feeling about the effects that mounting financial pressures are having on foreign students in the United States.

"If things keep going the way they are," said Mr. Rahmani, who attends North Carolina State University "only the social élite of other nations will be able to offered to come to the said to offord to come to America to study."

Foreigners studying in the United States, which leads the world in enrolling students from other countries, have tended to come from the upper classes. But the ready availability of scholar-ships and grants had increasingly opened opportunities for the less atfluent.

What concerns Mr. Rahmani and other foreign students now is that financial support for students from overseas is not being expanded in line with rising costs, being reduced by some colleges and universities as well as by foundations and certain federal program:

Enrollment

This year, for the tirst time in the postwar period, the for-eign student population in the United States dropped. The development of higher educational resources in their own lands is considered one reason tor the halt in the growth international curoliment in the United States. But economic constraints in this country are seen as a key factor.

In its last published survey, in 1971, the Institute of Interna-tional Education found that the percentage of toreign students supporting themselves increased while almost every other category of support—colleges, U.S. government, their own government, ments—decreased.

An example ot the tailure to expand opportunities tor foreign students in the United States is found in the Fulbright program which 10 years ago enrolled 2,521 students of a cost of $5,104,000. The program had 3,146 students at a cost of $8,922,000 in 1966, but this year it supported 2,011 studeots at a cost of $5,542,000. Similarly, the Agency tor In-ternational Development, which could ofter no statistics for years before 1969, supported 6,941 for-elgn students in the academic part of its program in 1969 and

Economic Analysis

The Fixed Exchange Rates Myth

By Hobart Rowen

WASHINGTON, June 28 (WP).—It was just six months ago that President Nixon, with an unerring talent for excessive rhetorical outburst, hailed the Smithsonian agreement on exchange rates as "the most significant monetary agree-ment in the history of the world."

Now, as a result of the British floating of the pound in violation of the agreement, the Smithsonian accord, if not exactly extinguished, lies exposed for what it really is—a voluntary com-pact destined to be broken when any participant concludes that the international conditions so

What boppened was that Britain found itself locked into a cost-push inflation that made fewer and fewer British goods competitive in world markets with the pound at $2.60.

Three Possible Options There were three options: The British government could have poured out its resources (as it did in 1967) to postpone an inevitable change in the exchange rate; it could have bit the bullet clearly by a devaluation, say to $2.40; or it could choose the "float," letting the pound seek its own

Sensibly, the British government, after losing perhaps $1.5 billion of its reserves in just a couple of days defending the $2.60 rate, decided not to throw good money after bad. The "float" protects the rest of Britain's reserves, and will make British exports more attractive as the rate for

As recently as Juna 10, at the international monetary conference sponsored by the American Bankers Association in Montreal, Prof. Milton Friedman, long an advocate of free floating rates warned that "the Smithsonian agreement is not a very long-lasting agreement. The exchange rates will be changed as soon as any country separately starts finding that it is getting a greater acrumulation (of reserves) one way or tha other way, or decumulations."

Otmar Emminger, a governor of the Bundesbank, contested Prof. Friedman'e view, arguing that the Smithsonian rates would be defended because the business communities in the various countries demanded the "stability" of fixed rates. But fixed rates, for the sake of fixed rates, just spell deflation and higher unemployment. Nobody's national honor is worth that kind of price.

The present crisis shows that the Smithsonian deal was just a sort of holding action that dissipates under the pressures faced by individual It becomes painfully clear that the stability

Stock Prices Decline In Slow N.Y. Session

By Vartanig G. Vartan NEW YORK, June 28 (NYT). The stock market, still saddled with worries, drifted lower today in one of the slowest trading sessions of 1972 on the New York Stock Exchange. Another uncertainty was added to a list that already included the recent floating of the pound and the outcome of the November presidential election. The government's leading economic indicators showed only a small gain for May, in striking contrast to the strong advances of recent months.

In the eyes of some observers this raised a question as to the future vigor of the economy'e recovery.

It was another down day for the market's own indicators. The Dow Jones industrial average, registering its fourth consecutive setback, dropped 4.44 to 930.84,

U.S. Backs Gas Imports

WASHINGTON, June 28 (AP-DJ).—The Pedoral Power Com-mission (FPC) today approved El Paso Netural Gas Co.'s plan to import the largest amount of liquefied natural gas (LNG) ever proposed. The FPC said the imports would equal almost 1 billion cubic feet of gas a day from Algeria. It said it was approving the plan to help remedy the gas shortage in the United States. Estimated cost of the facilities to receive and transport the gas is nearly $270 million.

The FPC action authorized Columbia LNG Corp., a subsidiary of Columbia Gas System Inc., to import 300 million cubic feet daily, and Consolidated System LNG Co., a unit of Consolidated Natural Gas Co., to import 350 million cubic feet of gas a day to a terminal on Chesapeake Bay, Md., at a price of 77 cents per 1,000 cublc feet. In addition, Southern Energy

Co., a unit of Southern Natural Gas Co., will import 350 million cubic feat a day at a terminal near Savannah, Ga. at a price of 83 cents per 1,000 cubic feet. The FPC granted certificates to the three companies to construct and operate facilities and to transport and sell the LNG in interstate commerca.

The gas will be produced by Sonatrach, the Algerian stateowned oil and gas agency. It will be transported in nine tankers owned by El Paso Marine Co., also an El Paso unit.

Export-Import Bank officiels sald Sonatrach, Algeria's gas and oil monopoly, is seeking about $385 million in credits from the bank and other lenders to f!nance equipment for a major expansion of its LNG exports. In New York, Eximbank president Henry Kearns said the U.S. agency bas a "preliminary pact" to help finance some of Sonatrach's purchases of equipment from U.S. suppliers. He sald "we expect wa will agree" on the financing plan with Sonatrach.

the adjournment was aimed at consulting other governments, "Mr. Schiller don't consult any-body. This will be a national decision on national issues," the spokesman said,

The cabinet resumed its deliberations at 10 p.m. and recessed again after midnight without coming to any decision on what steps to take to stave off a new inflow of capital. Another meeting was set for tomorrow at 10 a.m. A meeting of the Bun-desbank's council is also scheduled for tomorrow morning. In Italy, the nation's commercial banks were ordered to stop buying lira banknotes from foreign banks—a measura aimed at discouraging banks abroad, especially in Switzerland, from accepting lire smuggled out by Italians speculating against their own currency. The lira needed massive support at home as well as from its partners to keep with-in the 2.25 percent maximum spread allowed between EEC currencies under the recent monetary union plan. This support hod the effect of pushing tha rate for the dollar down to 581.5 from last Thursday's 587-50, which was only 13.10 lire from the highest the dollar can climb.

But Italy's effort to stay within beyond that its ability to maintain the wider 4.5 percent spread against the dollar (as allowed under the Washington accord) without a devaluation is coming under increasing speculation.

Prime Minister Edward Heath told a meeting in London last night that the "vital factor" underlying the floating of the pound was inflation and particularly unjustified wage increases. He said he wants trade unions and the Confederation of British Industry to renew their voluntary agreement to limit price and wage increases which expires next month, and warned that if they did not the government would take strong measures to keep wage Tomorrow, Mr. Heath's Conservative government will face a Labor party censure motion in Parliament over economic policy. Labor leaders charge that the government has failed to control the cost of living and that inflation has torpedeed the position of sterling in the world.

The General Crainary Meeting assembled on the 21nd of June under the Chairmanship of Mr. J. BALLET, President Managing Director, has approved the 1971 accounts which showed a profit of Fr. 55,635,122,57.

It has been decided at the meeting to distribute the sum of Fr. 47,671,840,80 for the 11,817,986 shares outstanding. The net dividends work out at Fr. 4.00 for each share, to which should be added the tax afready paid to the Treasury (fiscal credit) of Fr. 2.00, that is a global revenue of Fr. 5.00. This dividend will be paid as from June 30th (compon Mn. 33).

In his speech, the President referred to the current year:

"The first 4 menths of the current year permit me to say that the year has begun under relatively favorable circumstances.

"All the refineries functioned in full capacity since the beginning of the year. The transcript period last year.

The commercial activities showed results in line with those projected. Nevertheless, I must point out that in spite of a relatively favorable economic conjuncture and a clearly marked growth of production, the demand for energy products seems to have lessened somewhat, while at the same time, the competition maintains what appears to us to be an unrealistic level of prices in the face of events in the Middle East, which will lead to a persults of 1872 will depend largely on the readjustment of prices. . . ." Dietz Rows Ahead in Sculls At Henley Regatta Opening

Chris Daws

HENLEY, England. June 28 8:29, to rout English scullet (UPI).-Three of the four U.S. challengers in the diamond sculls, premier singles event at the Henley Royal Regatta, won their opening encounters today as the annual four-day River Thames extravaganza got under Olympic hopeful Jim Dletz of New York, runner-up last year, led the American trio into the second round. Dietz, 23. and 6 feet 6 inches, beat Pat Wolfe of Ireland in 9 minutes 17 seconds. His New York Athletic Club colleague Larry Klecatsky beat another Briton by a similar margin, clocking 9:24 to eliminate Briton Terry Bishop.

The speediest of the trio was Sean Drea of the Vesper Boat Club of Philadelphia, who corered the 1 mile 550-yard course in

However, it was a brief regatta for Lloyd Miller of the University of North Carolina; the Drexel University of Philadelphia Eights and Choate School of Wallingford, Conn. Miller was beaten by Irlshman

Hugh O'Callaghan, who clocked 9:21 in the diamond sculls. Drexel lost by 2-2/3 lengths in the Visitors Cup against Hampton grammar school and Choate's eight also found English opponents too strong, losing by 2-1.2 lengths to King's School in the Princess Elizabeth Cup.

In the second round, Dietz unexpectedly comes up against Robin Parish of London, who upset Australian Dick Garrard, who rowed in the Tokyo Olym-

11 U.S. Track Stars, Including

Evans, Cleared for Olympics

INDIANAPOLIS, June 28 (NYT) — Eleven top American track and field athletes, including such potential metalists as Lee Evans, Jay Silvester, George Woods and Norman Tate, have

Final confirmation of their eligibility came in a telegram yesterday from the International Amateur Athletic Federation in London to officers of the Amateur Athletic Union here.

The American athletes had sought a clarification of their amateur status with the IAAF over affiliation with a professional track and field tour that failed before it formally began two years ago. Although the athletes had been cleared to compete in the United States by the AAU, their international status hinged on results of a mail vote recently taken by the

Only an abrupt reversal by the eligibility committee of the International Olympic Committee could negate yesterday's decision between now and Munich, Such action appears unlikely, been cleared to compete in the Olympic Games this year.

LONDON, June 28 (IHT).-It's profoundly disappointing that Ajax should have changed its mind and its attitude, deciding to compete for the wretched Intercontinental Club Championship, against Independiente of Buenos Aires. Last year, it will be remembered, they refused to play Nacional of Uruguay, alarmed by the violent treatment meted out in previous years to European Cuphelders by their South American equivalents.

If anything, Independiente is played Sao Paulo of Brazil in their semi-final Liberators (South American) Cup group, one opponent had his broken with a hutt, another had eight stitches in lifs shin. The games will be played in October.

Injuries in Past

Why Ajex's players should be so keen to contest this abortion of a competition is beyond me for surely the incentive of money is more than counterhalanced by the very real prospect of physical injury. One hopes that Cruyff, Kaiser and Co. do not suffer the previous fate of such as Jimmy Johnstone George Best and Milan's Pie-

Which reminds one that Poletti, the Estudiantes de la Plata goalke-per who kicked Prati in the back in 1969—while the winger was having treatment-during the Buenos Aires leg of the tounament and was supposedly suspended for life, has joined Olympiakos of Piracus. One can only hope that Milan and the Greek club contrive to avoid each other in European competition,

Another "disgraced" who has found another club in another country is Zoltan Varga, the blond Hungarian insideforward who was thrown out of West German football for accepting bribes while playing for Hertha Berlin. Varga has join-this year, must rapidly be becoming the club they love to hate. Its treatment of the gifted Cameroons inside-forward, Jean-Pierre Tokoto, recalls its insistence, two years ago, that the Swedes should pay a large indemnity if they wished to use Roger Magnusson in the Mexican World Cup. Sweden said it couldn't afford it, and that excellent outside-right stayed at Tokoto was so keen to play in Brazil that he dug into his own pocket for a million and a half old francs, which he may or may not get back from the impoverished African Football Association. His one consolation is that he has certainly enhanced his "market value" with his fine displays.

Not Always the Best It's sad that such competi-tions as World Cups should tend increasingly to be falsified by the unavailability of star players, operating with foreign clubs. The other day, Australia, at long last able to call on such distinguished expatriates as Hasil, Parits and Starek, beat Sweden again without a badly needed Magnusson, 2-0, in a World Cup qualifying match in Vienna. Theoretically, it has an excellent chance of surprising the group's favorite Hungary, so fragile and disappointing in the Nations Cup Finals. But how many of these players will be available to them from the West German clubs, in the case of most of their stars, and from, Feyenoord, in Hasil's, when they play on the reserve team. Poor meet the Hungarians?

ships that ended in Miami last weekend was far from unexpect-ed. The magnificent sextet of Pietro Forguet, Benito Garozzo, Giorgio Belladonna, Walter Ava-relli, Massimo D'Alelio and Camillo Pabis Ticci led throughout the final against the Aces, representing the United States. and were only in difficulties once. The first big profit in the final went to Italy on the diagramed deal.

The deal was played first in the closed room, and Bob Goldman and Jim Lantonic phytid the East-West cards in four spades doubled. This entirely reasonable contract was defeated one trick because South held all the missing trumps.

In the replay on Vu-graph, Bob Hamman, as South, opened in the fourth seat with one diamond. Garozzo overcalled with one spade, and was raised to three spades by Forquet after Paul Soloway, as North, had bid two hearts. Eamman had no more to say, and Garrozzo imaginatively but hour speaks.

North was naturally not inclined to sell out to four spades.

NORTH O 011032 Q9832 EAST A K9532 ♥ A986 SOUTH ♦ 0116. ♥ 54 ♦ KQ985 * AJ 10

North and South were vil-merable. The bidding: West North East 2.0 3 4 4 N.T. Dbl. 5 0 Pass Pass Pass West led the spade ace.

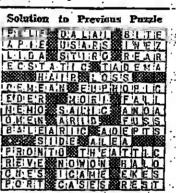

DENNIS THE MENACE

The victory of the Italian Blue For all he could tell, that con-ream in the world champion- wast might be a layown, and wact might pe a laydown, and there was an excellent chance that his side could make a game at the five level. Whether the game should be attempted in hearts, clubs or diamonds was the question at issue. A fivediamond bid would exclude clubs five, and a five club bid would reduce the prospects of playing in diamonds. So North made a good bid: four no-trump.

As North had limited his hand with his original pass and his subsequent non-forcing twoheart bid, he could not now be looking for a slam. The bid could only have one meaning, and South interpreted it correctly: North wanted to play in a suit at the five-level, but he did not know which suit.

East doubled, and South chose five diamonds; West doubled in his turn, and the opening lead was the spade ace, which was roffed in the dummy, Hamman tried the club finesse, and the jack lost to the king. West continued with a second spade, and South again ruffed in dummy.

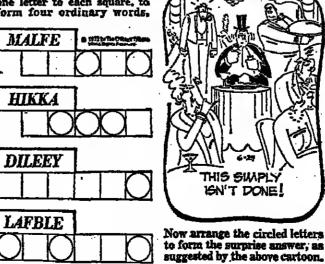

the trouble began when South attempted to re-enter his hand with a club lead. East ruffed, and underled his ace of hearts so that West could win and give him another club ruff. East still had a heart and a space winner, and when the smoke had cleared, the result was down four tricks for a loss of 1,100 points. This disaster was worth 15 international match points to Italy.

As a matter of fact the reviewer found himself in a perfect doing-thingsright situation just last week. There he was, standing thighdeep in an absolutely classic trout pool, snaking out long lazy casts and placing his dry fly just so. All his equipment was in tidy place-his fly-box full of flies. his zerosol can for drying them off, his leader pouch, spare line and bottle of Old Woodsman insect repellent—each in its special pocket in his fishingjacket. He was a little arsenal of efficiency, making perfect long casts. Of course, he wasn't taking any fish-he wasn't even raising a nibble—but everything was so neat and right that it didn't matter. But the pattern of the fight was clearly established in the first round with Foster methodically stalking his challenger, unloading stinging left jabs and stiff right hands.

Foster's solemn expression never changed until a Quarry left dug below the belt, in Foster's opinion. "Keep 'em up," the champion muttered as the pair clinched in the center of the 20-foot ring. Poster picked up the pace in the third round with a looping right that snapped Quarry's head back. Quarry countered gamely and even grinned in the next round when a hard left-right combination by the champion again rocked him.

The end came suddenly, another tribute to Foster's awesome punching power which has produced nine knockouts in his 10 successful title defenses.

White Sox Homer 3 Times off Blue

CHICAGO, June 28 (UPI).-The Chicago White Sox belted three home runs off Vida Rine and broke a tie on Carlos May's two-run single today to beat the Oakland Athletics, 6-4.

Blue gave up solo homers to Dick Allen, in the first inning, and Walt Williams, in the third, and a two-run shot by Tom Egan in the fourth. Blue was removed for Joe Horlen in the sixth and

Chris Evert Beats Wimbledon Jitters

By Fred Tupper

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28 (NYT).-Little Chris Evert survived her first sppearance under the Wimbledon spotlight but it took all ner legendary coolness in the crises to outlast Valerie Ziegenfuss in a three-setter that had its moments of magic.

Chris. 17, is ranked fourth in the United States; Valerie is No. 11. But for a long time Miss Ziegenfuss had the better of the play. She took six games m a row to win the first set. She led 3-3 in the second and again at 3-2 in the third set. But as so many other girls have found out before her, Valerie finally could not withstand the stream of ground shots that thudded inevitably beyond the reach of her racket.

For a while, Miss Ziegenfuss was irresistible. She was holding her service without strain and in those eternal rallies sho would pounce on the short ball and come careening up to net to put the point away. In the end. it wasn't good enough. Chris has limitations but she also has courage, patience and sound court tactics. Sandwiched around those base-line rallies were the occasional drop shot, the deathly interspersed lob and then the double-fisted backhand propelled into the corners for the clinchers. The match went to Miss Evert, 1-6. 6-3, 6-3.

In a holdover from last night, Onny Parun finally knocked out the fourth seed, Andrès Gimeno of Spain. Then the New Zealander had a match point in the third set Bt 5-4 and foozled it. was serving for the match in the fourth set at 5-4 and nervously lost it, and here he was again at 5-4 ln the fifth. This time with studied calm he had four backhand winners for the match, 6-4, 8-6, 6-8, 8-9, 6-4, Hie Nastase injected a touch of class into this Wimbledon without contract pros. The erratic Romanian genius, stale of late and over concerned with theatricals, hed the center court in an uproar in his needle match with Clark Graebner. In their last meeting, Nastase had walked off court frightened, he said, to play. In their two previous meetings here. Graebner had drubbed him. Today, "Nasty" was simply superb. Every shot in the game came to his command and other improvisations would not be credible in the lesson book. Graebner played well but tennis like this is out of the ordinary regim and Clark was snuffed out, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, Jimmy Connors of Believille, III., Efter upsetting seventh-seeded Bob Hewitt on opening day, defeated Nick Kalo of Greece, hammering four of those patented double-handers to break service for the match, 6-3, 7-5, 3-6.

Pancho Gonzales is gone beaten by the fastest service in the game since the heyday of Gonzales. He lost to Colin Dibley of Australia, quarterfinalist here last year, almost perceably in straight sets. There was only one interjection fram the old lion on a close decision. "God almighty," he said at large to the 21,400 people massed in the grounds. "That stupid linesman."

Iceland Chess Still Awaits Fischer Arrival

REYKJAVIK, June 28 (Reuters).—Preparations for the world chess championship which opens here Sunday are now in full swing-but there is still no sign of American challenger Bobby Fischer. World champion Boris Spassky of the Soviet Union arrived here a week ago to get acquainted with the surround-

The Associated Press reported today that Fischer has left Los Augeles after a final round of training and is scheduled to leave New York tonight for Reykisvik.

Iceland chess officials are becoming nervous at the nonappearance of Fischer. The officials became worried when the American failed to arrive by plane Monday and immediately telephoned New York when they learned that Fischer had canceled his ticket on the flight.

Keep the Change

"After Laird finishes counting it, the Joint Chiefs of Staff would have to count it to make sure he didn't make a mistake. If Laird made a mistake he would have to count it all over again.'

"He'd have his work cut out for him," I said. "If a congressman asks for a billion dollars for an appropria-tions bill, he would be required to count the money before proposing the bill," Duncan said. "The money would be set aside in a vault on Capitol Hill and after the bill was passed, each person who voted for it would have to count it. That means if 340 congressmen voted 'yea,' the money would have to be counted 340 times. If a congressman refused to count it, his

"Teil me, would you ask the President of the United States to count out the billions he requests in his budget?"

vote would be considered inval-

"Of course not," Duncan said. "The President's much too busy with other things. I think his wife and family should be required to count it for him." "His wife and family?"

Yes. Whenever the President figures out how much money he will need to run the country, Brink's trucks would bring it over to the White House in sacks and the President's wife and family could start counting in the upstairs quarters.

"I believe if a President saw his wife wearing a green eyeshade, sitting on the floor of the Lincoln Bedroom counting billions of dollars, it would have a very sobering effect on him." Doncan, you have proposed a very radical solution, but I must admit it does have merit." "I think," he said "that once we start giving oot our appropriations in cash instead of checks, a new era of fiscal responsibility will be upon us. All we have to say to the people in charge is 'If yoo want the mon-ey-count it.' And you'll see how fast all this loose talk about billions comes to a halt."

New Curbs on 'Traveling Life' For Gypsies

LONDON, (NYT).—On a flat asphalt field in East London, Mrs. Charity Eastwood steps out of her battered trailer each morning to heat up a pot of coffee. The open fire flickers. She pauses, then stares at the cars streaming toward the city. "Twe traveled all my life," says Mrs. Eastwood, a handsome, black-haired woman in her sixtles. "Wouldn't have any other life. I'm used to the open country and moving on, always moving on."

She waves to a group of youths leaving the site to hunt for scrap metal. "I've got seven kiddies, all married." she says. "I've got 25 grandchildren. They're traveling all over. You're kicked from one place to another, that's the life, one place to another." For Britain's 20,000 gypsies, one more uncertainty has been added to the hazards of what they call "the traveling life." A total of 16 boroughs, mostly around Lon-don, have applied to the British government to outlaw "surplus" gypsies from their areas under a four-year-old act that had been widely hailed as a humanitarian mea-

Facilities

The legislation, called the Caravan Sites Act, specified that boroughs with gypsies had a duty to provide sites for up to 15 pitches, or caravans, as trailers are known here. But having built the sites—setting up sewer and water facilities, electricity connections and an asphalt surface—the local aothorities may then ask the government for sharp legal powers to drive out "surplus" gypsies. Peter Walker, the minister for the environment, has now decided to present to Parliament the first such designation orders, as they are called. Each of the towns selected has built a camp site, and all hope to outlaw any surplus of gypsies. The move is supported by powerful tenants' groups, which have begun a public campaign to keep the number of gypsies in check. L.A. Mack, chairman of the residents' federation of the London borough of Bromley, recently warned householders what to expect "if gypsy caravans settle near them." They can expect their children to be forcibly robbed of clothes and toys, their trees and fences to be systematically pillaged to provide fuel and access for their vehicles onto private lands, and ill-con-trolled horses to be let loose to graze in playing fields and private gardens," he said. Although the controversy over gypsies has led the government in recent weeks to announce that, "as a matter of urgency."

local authorities will be able to receive additional money for official camp sites, there remains a sense of fear and tension within the gypsy community. At present there are 43 official, or government-sponsored, camp sites, with gypsy represent-atives asking for 250 around the British

Support for the gypsies was announced today by the National Council for Civil Liberties, similar to the American group, which attacked what were termed "no go areas" for gypsies. "Gypsies remain an oppressed community," the council said. The civil liberties are denied."

In the last few weeks gypsy groups also have denounced the drive to bar the "surplus" from boroughs.

"Gypsies have been hounded since the Middle Ages and they're still suffering," said Donald Kenrick, a teacher who is secretary of the Gypsy Council, the group that is pressing gypsy demands, "People feel, somehow, threatened by gypsies," he dechared. 'They feel house values will go down and gypsies will bring disrepute to

"There's an element of envy too," said Mr. Kenrick. "People envy the gypsy's freedom to move around, to live in the open, to be free of red tape and the ordinary

In recent years the problem of gypsies—who are either dark-skinned Romanies descended from a wandering Indian tribe, or Irish tinkers who turned nomadic with last century's potato famine-has sparked interest among teachers and social workers. The landmark Plowden Report four years ago on British education termed gypsies "probably the most severely deprived children in the country."

Fewer than 600 of the 6,000 gypsy children now in England and Wales are attending school and most are growing up illiterate. Although educators have con-cluded that the most feasible way of teaching gypsy children is to bring the school to the site, only one such school has been set up in Britain, in a camp on an empty field in the London borough of Redbridge, Yul Brynner, the actor, who is part gypsy, supports the school. "There are such enormous, almost insurmountable, problems teaching gypsy children," said Venice Manley, the nongypsy who teaches at the caravan school. "They have a totally different set of values than 2 settled child, and this makes it difficult for them to go to an ordinary school."

PEOPLE:

Frank Sinaira may have retired from the entertainment business but he has scheduled a public performance July 18, according to Rep. Claude Pepper, a Florida Democrat and chairman of the House Select Committee on Crime. Pepper said Sinaira, who failed to show up for his appearance before the committee earlier this month, has agreed to appear when it resumes its probe into alleged Mafia infiltration into organized sports in America. Sinatra reportedly is in Monte Carlo, but a spokesman for the House committee said he could return home without fear of being

Take this one to Detroit magazine: "Q Didn't Jean Harlow write the epitaph that appears on her tombstone?" And Detroit's A. "No. However, like many other celebrities, she wrote an epitaph that was never engraved on her stone. It read: 'Of this quiet and peace I'm fond; no more remarks—"She's a platinum blonde" Eddie Cantor penned: Here in nature's arms I nestle. free at last from Georgie Jessel George Bernard Shaw wrote: T knew if I stayed around long enough something like this would happen.' And Walter Winchell's was: 'Here lies Walter Winchell in the dirt he loved so well."

Here comes, or rather, there goes Martha Mitchell again.
